A LETTER FROM DR. HOLMES.

He tells a Little Girl of an Adventure When He Was a Boy.

Isabella Graham Mardock contributes to St. Nicholas an experience of her school day life.

When I was a little boy, I got upon a raft one day—a few boards laid together—which floated about in a pond—a very small pond.

I remember a great sound in my ears—"guggle, guggle," I said it was, when they asked me about it—and a desperate struggle, feeling that I was going to be drowned.

I had never heard that this was a common experience with persons who are near drowning.

I get a great many letters from young persons, and it takes a great deal of my time to answer them.

The Horned Rattlesnake. The oddest specimen of the snake family known to the American naturalist.

Prior to the time when Dr. C. Hart Merriam made the famous Death valley exploring expedition, in 1892 '3, but few specimens of it, and those mostly from the western desert regions, had been collected.

They have horns on top of their heads and are the smallest rattlers known.—St. Louis Republic.

Just Like a Sister. She blushed prettily as she told the sister of her best young man that she thought she would buy a birthday present for him.

"You know him better than I do," she said, "so I came to you for advice."

"Yes," said the sister inquiringly. "Oh, yes, indeed! What would you advise me to get?"

"Oh, I don't know!" replied the sister carelessly. "I could only advise you in general terms. From what I know of him, however, he will appreciate something that can be easily pawned better than something that cannot."—Pearson's Weekly.

HEBE'S GRATITUDE.

HOW SHE REMEMBERED THE MAN WHO CURED HER FOOT.

The Story Told by a Veterinary Surgeon Who Early in His Career Had One of Barnum's Elephants for a Patient—A Trying Ordeal.

I was a full-fledged M. D. once and never should have thought of adopting my present profession if it hadn't been for a queer accident which occurred when I first hung out my shingle.

I had a rich neighbor, a man I was bound to propitiate, and the very first call I had, after days of waiting for patients who didn't come, was to his barn to see what was the matter with his sick mare.

I cured the mare and took in my shingle, for from that day to this I've never prescribed for a human being. I had won a reputation as a veterinary surgeon and had to stick to it.

When I had been in practice a year or two, I sent for my brother Dick. He was a wonderful chap with all kinds of animals, and I thought perhaps I could work out of my part of it and leave that for him.

The next day after Dick came I got a telegram from P. T. Barnum. I'd been down there once or twice to his own stable, and he had a good deal of faith in me.

"Hebe has hurt her foot. Come at once." Hebe was a favorite elephant—a splendid creature, and worth a small fortune.

Well, I confess I hesitated. I distrusted my own ability and dreaded the result. But Dick was determined to go, and so we did.

"I'd forgotten you were such a little fellow," he said in a discouraged tone. "I'm afraid you can't help her."

His distrust put me on my mettle. "Mr. Barnum," said I, getting into the carriage, "if it comes to a hand to hand fight between Hebe and me I don't believe an extra foot or two of height would help me any."

He laughed outright, and began telling how the elephant was hurt. She had stepped on a small bit of iron and it had penetrated the tender part of the foot.

Long before we reached the inclosure in which she was we could hear her piteous trumpeting, and when we entered we found her on three legs, swinging the hurt foot slowly backward and forward and uttering long cries of anguish.

Even Dick quailed now. "You can never get near her," he whispered. "She'll kill you, sure."

Her keeper divined what he said. "Don't you be afraid, sir," he called out to me. "Hebe's got sense."

"I like your pluck, my boy," he said heartily, but I own that I felt rather queer and shaky as I went up to the huge beast.

While I was doing so as gently as I could I felt, to my horror, a light touch on my hair. It was as light as a woman's, but as I turned and saw the great trunk behind me it had an awful suggestiveness.

"She's only curling your hair," sang out the keeper. "Don't mind her."

"I shall have to cut, and cut deep," said I by way of reply.

He said a few words in some lingo, which were evidently intended for the elephant's understanding only.

The man's faith inspired me. There he stood, quite unprotected, directly in front of the great creature, and quietly jabbered away to her as if this were an everyday occurrence.

Well, I made one gash with the knife. I felt the grasp on my hair tighten perceptibly, yet not ungently.

"Cut away!" came again the encouraging response.

This stroke did the work. The abscess was lanced. We sprayed out the foot, packed it with oakum and bound it up.

The relief must have been immediate, for the grasp on my hair relaxed, the elephant drew a long, almost human, sigh, and—well, I don't know what happened next, for I fainted dead away.

It must have been a year and a half after this happened that I was called to western Massachusetts to see some fancy horses.

"Hebe's well and hearty, sir," the keeper answered me. "Come in and see her. She'll be glad to see you."

"Nonsense," said I, though I confess I had a keen curiosity to see if she would know me as I stepped into the tent.

There she stood, the beauty, as well as ever. For a moment she looked at me indifferently, then steadily and with interest.

"Say, waiter, this roast isn't palatable." "That's just what I thought, but I didn't say so because I did not want to spoil your appetite."—Sketch.

The Old Standard For the Yard.

The yard is the British and American standard of length. Down to 1824 the original standard of Britain (and from which ours was copied) was a rod, which had been deposited in the court of exchequer, London, in the time of Queen Elizabeth.

DEFULT having been made in the conditions of a mortgage, made by Alexander Martin, of Michigan, to Joseph Werten, Junior, of Michigan, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the county of Houghton, State of Michigan, on the 15th day of August, A. D., 1897, on page 115, on which said mortgage there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice the sum of one thousand ($1,000.00) principal and interest, and in addition thereon an attorney's fee of thirty-five dollars ($35.00), as by statute in such case made and provided, and to suit or proceedings money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in such mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Wednesday, the 17th day of February, A. D. 1897, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house, in the village of Calumet, in Houghton county, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for said county will be held on the 17th day of February, 1897, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon), of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, together with an attorney's fee of thirty-five dollars ($35.00), and all legal costs, together with an attorney's fee of thirty-five dollars ($35.00), as by the statute in such case made and provided, and to suit or proceedings money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in such mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Wednesday, the 17th day of February, A. D. 1897, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house, in the village of Calumet, in Houghton county, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for said county will be held on the 17th day of February, 1897, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon), of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, together with an attorney's fee of thirty-five dollars ($35.00), and all legal costs, together with an attorney's fee of thirty-five dollars ($35.00), as by the statute in such case made and provided, and to suit or proceedings money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in such mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Wednesday, the 17th day of February, A.
